7.1.3 - Describe the facilities in the Institution for the management of the following types of degradable and non-degradable waste (within 200 words) Solid waste management Liquid waste management Biomedical waste management E-waste management Waste recycling system Hazardous chemicals and radioactive waste management

Solid Waste Management:

To address solid waste disposal challenges, strategically placed dustbins are a crucial aspect of our approach. These dustbins are collected and transported to a dedicated depot established by the Nashik Municipal Corporation (NMC). Furthermore, vending and disposal machines are readily available, contributing to efficient waste disposal. Disposal of broken glassware is thoughtfully executed using cardboard boxes, which are then sent separately to the depot for proper management.

Liquid Waste Management:

Our liquid waste management is seamlessly integrated with the Municipal drainage system. Waste water from various sources is thoughtfully channeled into the Municipal drainage. We prioritize the use of preferentially diluted solutions for experimental purposes, underscoring our responsible approach to laboratory practices. Concentrated solutions are disposed of in sinks only after undergoing dilution, ensuring their safe passage through the drainage system.

E-Waste Management:

Our institution actively addresses electronic waste through regular updates to our dead stock register. By promptly identifying and removing outdated and non-functional equipment, we ensure responsible and efficient e-waste management.

Biomedical Waste Management:

Our commitment to proper biomedical waste management is exemplified through a rigorous steam sterilization process. Subsequently, these materials are disposed of through the sanitary sewer.
